By His Stripes We Are Healed

"But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed."

Isaiah 53:5

1. Healing Was Purchased, Not Just Promised

Long before the cross, the prophet Isaiah described a suffering Servant who would carry sicknesses and bear pains that were never His own. This was not a side benefit of salvation — it was written into the very description of what the cross would accomplish. Healing was included in the same transaction that dealt with sin.

This is why the New Testament writers, quoting this very verse, apply it directly to physical healing (Matthew 8:17). What Christ suffered in His body was substitutionary — He took the stripes so that healing could be released to us.

2. Faith Meets a Finished Work

Notice the tense of the verse: "with his stripes we ARE healed" — not "we will be healed one day if we are fortunate." Healing is described as an accomplished reality that faith simply lays hold of. Our prayers for healing, therefore, are not attempts to persuade a reluctant God; they are acts of agreement with what has already been finished.

This does not remove the place of wisdom, medical care, or patience in a process. But it does remove despair. No diagnosis has the final word over a body that has already been purchased by those stripes.

3. Carrying This Word Into Your Body Today

Whatever you are carrying in your body right now — pain, fatigue, a diagnosis, a lingering weakness — bring it under this word. Speak it over yourself: by His stripes I am healed. Let this truth shape your prayers, your expectation when hands are laid on you, and your patience as you wait to see it manifest fully.

Healing is not earned by how loudly we shout or how long we fast; it is received the same way salvation is received — by simple, steady faith in a finished work.

Closing Prayer

> Father, I thank You that Jesus carried my sicknesses and my pains in His own body so that I would not have to. I receive my healing today, not as a hope but as a purchased reality. Strengthen my faith to stand on Your Word until what You have finished is fully seen in my body. In Jesus' name, Amen.
